COMMITTEE NEWS

We have been sorry to lose Pat Dee from the Committee owing to family illness. We thank her for her contribution to the Society, especially for the 2020 Programme she arranged before her resignation. We held a successful February meeting and were looking forward to the rest of the Programme, but have been overwhelmed by the pandemic. We hope to resume the meetings as soon as it is safe to do so, and we hope you come along to support our efforts and to enjoy the speakers.

Pat's departure means that we need a new Meetings Secretary, at a time when we need to fill other vacancies on the Committee to share out the various tasks, so that no one has to take on too much. With the AGM coming up do bear this in mind.

We have reviewed our links with our neighbouring Local History Societies - Shoreham & District LHS, Horton Kirby & South Darenth LHS and Hextable Heritage Society - and have made some changes to an informal agreement made several years ago. We found that we were the only Society publicising others' meetings and offering free entry, so after consultation have decided not to offer free entry, and to give links to the others' websites in the Bulletin rather than giving full details of their programmes. At the same time we have had approaches from Swanley History Group, Otford & District Historical Society, and Anthony Roper Charity. All are now to be linked on our website and added to the contact list in the Bulletin. We are also going to exchange our newsletters.

Lastly, we are delighted to welcome guests to our meetings, but have found that some are becoming regular guests without joining FELHS, so we have decided to charge £3 for guests attending our meetings. We hope this will encourage more people to recognise the benefits of joining the Society to support its work in preserving the heritage of the villages, as well as enjoying its meetings and receiving the Bulletin.

Ever optimistic - we have already booked speakers for the 2021 Programme!

RESEARCH REPORT

Susan Pittman, 01322 669923, archives@felhs.org.uk

Copies of Trident: June - December 2019 wanted for the Centre

We used to be given copies regularly, but the donation has stopped. We have a complete run of Trident until May 2019, so if you have June, July, August, September, October, November December 2019 please think of us. You can drop them through Alison's door. Her address is on the first page of the Bulletin.

Putting paper Trident Index onto Computer - A project to consider

I have compiled a paper copy of personalia in Trident - births, christenings, marriages, anniversaries, deaths, funerals. If you are now confined to your house, or might be, and would like a project, do get in touch. We can arrange to put the paper copy through your door, without contact if necessary.

Membership of Kent Archaeological Society for members of FELHS

FELHS is an affiliated member and as such our members can enjoy certain benefits. If you want to attend KAS events, such as conferences or visits, you can pay KAS membership rates. Contact me for the membership number. I hold the one membership card which you will need if you wish to use the KAS library in Maidstone Museum. You will need to show the card so we can make arrangements for a handover.

Lullingstone Roman Villa at 70, 19 July 2019

I failed to mention in the last Bulletin this reunion of diggers, to which we were invited. A special exhibition featuring the excavations over the years 1949 - 1961 was opened (using some of FELHS display furniture). Brian Philp DL spoke of his involvement as a schoolboy from 1952, and Dr Gerald Cramp of his from 1957 - there were fewer diggers, however, than at the last reunion of 2009. There are community digs taking place this year at Lullingstone Castle led by Dr Anne Sassin, for dates see Darent Valley Landscape Partnership website, which includes Anne's phone number.

Revd. Thomas Browne (c.1612-1678) of Farningham

Tom Reid has sent us a draft copy of a paper he has written about Revd. Thomas Browne gleaned from manuscript (LPL MS 1126) held in Lambeth Palace Library. Thomas Browne was Vicar of Farningham during the turbulent years of the Civil War, when, in 1650, Farningham was a vicarage, with a house, and nine acres of glebe land, worth forty pounds a year, 'Thomas Browne enjoying it, and preaching here.' With the restoration of the monarchy in 1660, Thomas Browne continued as vicar of Farningham, although he was allowed other livings to augment his income. He had managed to ride the storm, and accepted the Act of Uniformity in 1662, swearing allegiance to Crown and Church.

Painting of Eynsford by Walter John Holmes Knewstub (1831-1906)

Walter began his career at the Royal Academy School but was so inspired by Daniel Gabriel Rossetti's teaching at the Working Men's College that he left to become his pupil and assistant in 1863. His humorous, easy going temperament fitted well into Rossetti's unconventional household. He became closely involved with the Pre-Raphaelites and married Emily Renshaw, one of the stunning models of the group. (Search Walter Knewstub's name on-line to find a portrait of her and another of their daughter, Lucy, by Knewstub.) The marriage led to a split with the Pre-Raphaelites and he began to exhibit independently from 1865. The painting of Eynsford is dated 1899, so late in his career. It is very evocative and the only image I have seen so far showing the backs of the properties along the river - the one with the cat-slide roof was probably the forge. The painting belongs to Timothy, who believes his grandfather was given it by the artist as repayment of a loan.

Dartford Union Settlement Records

These are loose papers, not individually catalogued. They contain a wealth of information for the family historian:

Herbert Miles aged 8-9 - Father, Edwin, a coachman in Paddington, died of consumption in 1900, and his mother, Clara (nee Stockley) was in Barming Heath Asylum. Herbert was sent to live with his aunt Isabella Stockley of 3 Elliott Terrace in Eynsford. For two years she was receiving two shillings for his upkeep, but he was delicate and in 1909 she asked for three shillings a week as she wanted to keep him.

Charlotte Hayes, widow aged 39 - She had six children under 12. Since 1905 she had lived in High Croft Cottages, Farningham, then at 5 Alexandra Terrace, Swanley Junction. Her husband had been admitted to St. Bart's Hospital in 1909, where he had died shortly afterwards. She had entered Malling Union, and it was asking Dartford Union to pay outdoor relief of 3/6d and sixteen large loaves a week.

Horton Kirby & South Darenth in the Great War

'Our Peace Was Won By The Men Who Fell' by Sarah Lewis, Stephen de Winton, and Malcolm Scott is more than brief biographies of those who died in the First World War, commemorated on the local war memorial and at the Farningham Homes for Little Boys. Half the book goes through the war years as experienced by the local communities, with appropriate photos, ending with the history of the war memorial installed in Horton Kirby Church. One of the men featured is Cyril Munn Crowhurst, who served in the 2nd Battalion, King's Royal Rifle Corps, and died in France of his wounds on 4 November 1918 aged 22. The book says that his name also heads the memorial in the foyer of Eynsford Baptist Church, but this must be another older Cyril, since the one in Eynsford Baptist Church served as deacon and treasurer - hardly likely positions for Cyril Munn Crowhurst to hold as a late teenager when he left to serve.

Harber Brothers Lorries

Allan Bedford had written an article about this company, but I did not realise that Norris Willatt had recorded an interview with A.W. Harber in 1938. This has been reproduced in Swanley History Group Newsletter issue 82, November 2019. The brothers began as blacksmiths, but by 1938 had their headquarters in Swanley Village, with four office staff, and forty others. They then owned a fleet of thirty-five lorries and three pits, for shingle, sand and ballast. In 1921 when work on the Farningham by-pass began, the brothers learnt that lorries were required. They borrowed one lorry, and with it went from strength to strength. They supplied 1,000,000 tons of road materials for the Bexley by-pass, and in 1938 were engaged on raising the marshes adjoining the Dartford - Purfleet tunnel. W. Harber attributed success to hard work and being a testotaller and non-smoker. For more on Harber Brothers see 'The Hauling Harbers' by Allan Bedford and Barry Lucking in Vintage Roadscene issue 222 May 2018.

Eynsford experienced by an Evacuee

Diana Beamish contacted a life member, Robert McCloy, former Director of Education and Chief Executive of the Royal Borough of Kingston upon Thames, when she learnt of Education across the United Kingdom 1944-2017, a book edited by him in 2018. Bob was evacuated to Eynsford during the Second World War and described his experience of attending the village school. He recalled, 'three gas-lit classrooms with coal fires, whitewashed walls, outside toilets, a barren playground with air raid shelter, to which the classes frequently fled to sing 'Ten Green Bottles', or so it seemed.' His father was in the Royal Army Medical Corps stationed in Lullingstone Castle, where they practised military manoeuvres and D-day preparations. 'It was a lively community. It seemed a self-contained world: everybody knew everybody and though there was a recognizably clear-cut social order, ----, all participated in community activities.' The social structure was reinforced by the fact that most secondary school pupils remained in the village, in the former National school building. In 1944 the older pupils were sent to school in Swanley. 'It is doubtful whether this would have been for the pupils or the community a material improvement.'

Eynsford Fire Station

There is agreement that the Fire Station was in Priory Lane. John Meakins believes it to have been built in the 1930s. Horton Kirby Fire Station, 1950s. Dartford Rural Fire Brigade brought the local village fire brigades together in 1931. New engines were then bought and he thinks it likely that Eynsford Fire Station was built to house the new engine - as were Horton Kirby, Wilmington and Stone. When district fire brigades were brought together in the Kent County Brigade in 1948, Eynsford Fire Station lost out in the re-organisation. Its engine was disposed of immediately, and by March 1948 the Fire Station was advertised to be let. Eynsford Parish Council suggested that it be converted into a residence, and rented to an Eynsford family, and perhaps it was converted into a bungalow. The exact location of the Fire Station is also uncertain - was it on the corner site leading to the allotments, or in the area before the allotment where the Scout Building and the Parish Council Office stand? Any information would be most welcome.

Shoreham & District Historical Society Publications

I went to a meeting in Shoreham recently and was very impressed by the array of their publications, though they are only a few pages long compared with ours. One I bought was The Shoreham Weather Report, which is of interest since our area would have been similarly affected - the cold winter of 1962-3, the floods of 1958 and 1968, the drought of 1976, the storm of 1987, the snowfalls of 1991 and 2010 are all featured. Look for the full list on the website - also remember that ours are listed under Publications on our website. I think many of you might have forgotten what a wide range of interesting publications we have so I am attaching the full list to this Bulletin. Contact me or Alison Marshall to order.

General Enquiries

Eynsford Workhouse - Stewart wanted to know where this was and when it was used. The workhouse was in Bower House, Bower Lane. It was not needed after the 1834 Poor Law Act which set up large workhouses, and Dartford Union Workhouse was built. In 1846 a meeting of Eynsford ratepayers was held to agree selling the Eynsford Workhouse, and the sale was completed in September 1846 when it was purchased by Thomas Sarjent of Eynsford for £200. (KHLC Dartford Union Minutes G/Da/AM6, pp.382, 385, 392, 396)

Mick Williams - Stephen is researching the Battle of Kangaw in the Second World War for a book and was hoping to get in contact with Mick William's family for some background details. Mick served in No. 1 Commando in Burma, and had memories of the Battle. Helen was able to contact Mick's son, who will liaise with Stephen over his father's papers, and let us know the outcome.

Saxon cemeteries - Chris is digitising archaeological plans for the Darent Valley, and has come across inconsistencies regarding exact locations. I was unable to help him, but sites he has queries about include Darentlea, Castle Cottage and the Riverside Club, all in Eynsford. Please contact me if you know where the archaeology lies in these sites.

Meaning of Farningham - David is researching the Kentish place-name of Frinsted, and its earlier variations. He referred to the possibility of Farningham meaning the place of freemen. I referred him to J.K. Wallenberg's The Place-Names of Kent.

Farningham Hotel - Michael asked for information, which I gave him from FELHS publication on Farningham Pubs. It was built in 1925 from design by J.O. Cook & Sons of Woolwich. The owners of the Bricklayers' Arms bought the two-acre site and transferred their licence to the new-build, after the construction of the new section of the A20.

Cricket/ Football ground near Fort Halstead - John enquired about this. He said there was a well-known story of cricket and football being played on the chalk downs there in Shakespeare's day. I could not help, but noticed in a recent edition of The Sevenoaks Chronicle that Bob Ogleby was able to point to one former ground.

Eynsford Fire Station - Garry was interested in the site of the fire station, images of it, and what became of it. (See above)

The Chequers, Farningham - The planned closure of this well-loved pub caused consternation, and FELHS was asked how to get it listed. I suggested approaching the Parish Council to see if it could be classed as a community asset.

Water colour of Eynsford by Walter Knewstub - Timothy wanted confirmation that the painting was of Eynsford. (See above)

Family History

Alexander - Claire from Australia wanted to trace information about Farningham Homes for Little Boys where her husband lived in the early 1950s. I pointed her to our Noticeboard on the website.

Durling - Sue is an expert family historian, who has been studying the Everest family history for years, she enquired about Ellen Sophia Durling (1833-1884) who married Thomas Everest of Farningham in 1852. They had six children before Ellen died of meningitis in 1884, and Thomas married again.

Odd - Caroline asked for details of surviving gravestones in Crockenhill.

Window - Derek's father, Frederic, was sent to Farningham Homes for Little Boys in 1917, aged 9, after his father drowned in the Thames. He sent some of his father's memories, which I suggested he passed on to contacts via our Noticeboard.

Youe's outfitters, Farningham - Michael was tracing his Huguenot ancestors. His great-grandfather, William Henry Youe, kept a shop in Farningham, and died in Thanet in 1927. Vikki was able to supply him the information she had collected for the Farningham Shop Exhibition. (See above)

ARCHIVE REPORT

Susan Pittman - 01322 669923, www.felhs.org.uk

We finished the season last year with a big clean-up so will have a tidy, clean work space for March. Having thought about Health and Safety, an electrical check is being made of the building and its electrical appliances.

During the winter Helen completed adding James Alexander's slide captions to the digital images, and we are hoping to show some of them at a meeting in the 2021 programme.

We will be busy from March to June preparing for the two Church Exhibitions, so any more volunteers would be most welcome.

Members always enjoy the Scrapbooks, but to keep them going we need a volunteer to stick in the cuttings, which I provide. Diana Beamish has been the mainstay for the Eynsford Scrapbook, but we desperately need someone to take over the Farningham Scrapbook. If you have an interest in Farningham, and are perhaps less active than once, it would be a great opportunity to keep up with what's going on, and to help out the Society.

Acquisitions

From Caroline Newbold - The Village of Eynsford c.1910; The Official Guide, Swanley, Kent c.1964.
